Success as You Define It

Who We Are

We Help Students

At ReUp, our mission is to provide you with the resources you need to overcome educational barriers and achieve your goals. Whether you're an adult learner on a nontraditional path or a student who left college without a degree because of unforeseen circumstances, we offer free personalized coaching that empowers you to fulfill your academic, professional, and personal goals. From figuring out the right path for you to achieving your definition of success, you can count on ReUp for the support you need—when and where you need it.

You Have Choices

Explore Your Options

Interested in furthering your education but not sure that returning to your original college or university is in the cards? You have options.

Our Success Coaches are here to help you decide whether transferring might align with your current goals. Or if you are interested in pursuing a more career-focused, à la carte alternative, ReUp's network of partner schools provides you with access to more than 1,300 programs that are tailored to your needs as an adult learner, including certificates and other credentials that will prepare you for the future of work.

ReUp can help you explore and choose the right education or training for your goals, your timeframe, and your budget:

- Determine if returning to your college or university is right for you.
- Find a degree or credential program that fits your needs.
- Navigate the enrollment process from beginning to end.
- Set goals and overcome obstacles all the way to graduation.

From program discovery and selection to enrollment and completion, we're here to support you as you move forward on your path to success.

What They're Saying

“Without encouragement from my coach to re-enroll and support me throughout the whole semester, I would have possibly put my career on hold indefinitely. Sometimes we all need a little push in the right direction!”
